

Badger Trust ANNUAL CONFERENCE 2008

Lancaster University
George Fox Complex,
Lancaster LA1 4YW

Friday 5th to Sunday 7th September 2008

Conference Hosts Lancashire Badger Group

The George Fox Complex at Lancaster University is a purpose-built conference facility with a modern auditorium and adjoining multi-functional rooms.

Single-bedroomed residential accommodation (with en-suite bathroom) is available on the campus. These are recently built flatlets and have kitchen facilities on each floor. Tea and coffee facilities are available in rooms.

Double rooms are available only at the independent Lancaster House Hotel which is within the university grounds. Delegates who require a double room should contact the hotel directly on 01524 844822 to pay for their room separately.

The Barkers House Farm food venue provides on-site dining and Bar facilities

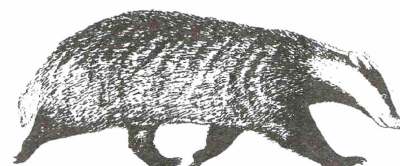

The University is situated just outside the historic city. Lancaster has excellent road, rail and public transport links (M6 and the West Coast mainline). Lancaster itself has some great places to eat and drink and has castles and museums, as well as modern shops and individual boutiques too. For the young at heart, a trendy nightlife is a modest taxi ride away. The wonderfully accessible coastline of Morecambe Bay and the scenic attractions of the Forest of Bowland AONB and the Lake District are all within an easy drive.
